

ON DEATH BED

Hiram Beatty Said He Was Given Poisoned Wine.

Hiram Beatty, a wealthy and prosperous farmer of near Reddington, died about nine o'clock Saturday evening, and surrounding his death are some mysterious circumstances which may not be cleared up until the report of the State Chemist, who made an analysis of his stomach, is filed. Just before Mr. Beatty died he pointed to Michael Surface, who was standing near his bed, and stated that he had given him some wine which contained poison.

About six o'clock Saturday evening, Mr. Beatty went to the home of Mr. Surface, who lives but a short distance from the Beatty farm, for a friendly call. It is said that Beatty and Surface had had some difficulties at various times during the past two years, but for several months had been on friendly terms. It is said that as Beatty was returning home he began to grow dizzy. When he reached his home he attempted to walk up the steps leading to the door of his house, but when he got on the first step he suddenly became unconscious and fell backward, striking the back of his head against the pavement. He was carried into his home and Dr. C. A. Hunter, of Reddington, called. As soon as Dr. Hunter made an examination he realized that the injured man was in a critical condition and Dr. M. F. Gerrish was also called.

After Mr. Beatty fell he was in convulsions, with the exceptions of a few minutes, until his death. It is said that during one period of consciousness, while several persons were standing about his bedside, among whom was Mr. Surface, Mr. Beatty pointed to Mr. Surface and said that he had given him some wine while he was at his house, and that the wine had contained poison. Mr. Surface immediately denied the charge, and, it is said, stated that he had given no wine whatever, to Mr. Beatty. After making the accusation the injured man again became unconscious and could make no further statement regarding the charge.

After Mr. Beatty died, the attending physicians, together with several of his friends who had heard the charge, advised that the coroner be notified. When Frank Dowden, the county coroner, reached the Beatty home and became acquainted with the situation, he ordered that a post mortem examination be held. This was conducted Sunday morning by Drs. Gerrish and Hunter. Every precaution was taken that the State Chemist might have every opportunity to make a correct analysis of the stomach, which was taken to the state laboratory Sunday morning, immediately after the post mortem examination was held, by Coroner Dowden and Ralph Applewhite, who acted as clerk.

In falling Mr. Beatty suffered a stellated fracture at the base of the brain, which was undoubtedly the direct cause of his death. He struck his head at the same place where his skull was fractured about fifteen years ago, when he attempted to board a moving train near Walesboro. From the effects of that injury his skull was in such a condition that it would have been easily refractured.

The report of the State Chemist is expected here tomorrow or Wednesday, when it will be definitely ascertained if the wine, which was alleged to have been given Mr. Beatty, contained poisonous substances.

Mr. Surface came to this county about three years ago, at the time the extension of the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern traction line was being built from Columbus to this city, he having employment with that company in building the extension. When he came here he boarded at the Beatty home, but for some time has lived by himself on a small farm near Reddington. More recently he had been practiced as an auctioneer.

Mr. Beatty was about sixty-five years of age. He was well known throughout this county and had many friends. He is survived by his wife, two brothers and three sisters.

The funeral services were held at Walesboro Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Burial at cemetery near Walesboro.

CORN IS KING.

Leads All Other Crops in Indiana in 1908—Wheat Second.

That corn was king in Indiana in 1908, as usual, is shown by the statistics compiled at the office of J. L. Peetz, chief of the bureau of statistics. As in other years this crop was the principal revenue getter for the farmer; wheat comes second. Oats, eggs and milk also loom up large in the statistical reports of the township assessors.

The compiling of the statistics was delayed by the failure of some assessors to report to the state. Mr. Peetz has been lively on the trail of the delinquents, however, and at length has obtained the desired information. Assessors in their turn had trouble with farmers who hesitated to give in accurate figures, believing that a complete disclosure of the crops and produce might affect taxation, or might be used for information of benefit to speculators. The totals of the 1908 farm statistics, therefore, are now being added at a time when the 1909 figures are almost due to be turned in.

The totals of only about one-fifth of the classes of farm data of which the state keeps a record have been compiled, the work of getting the other totals now being in progress.

Aircraft Contests.

Louisville is making preparations for the aviation meet to be held in that city June 18 and 19. The meet will be held under the auspices of the Louisville Times. The several events will be held at Churchill Downs and some of the world's most noted aviators will be there with their aircrafts. Most prominent among them will be Glen Curtiss, whose daring achievements both in this country and abroad have stamped him as a peerless airship pilot; Charles Willard, Horace Wild, Charles Hamilton and C. K. Bates. It is expected that great crowds will flock to Louisville from southern Indiana and Kentucky to see the big air-sailing machines make their start.

TOWNSHIP COMMENCEMENT.

Jackson, Washington and Redding Exercises Tonight.

The annual commencement exercises of the Jackson, Washington and Redding township public schools will be held at the opera house tonight. The principal address will be made by State Superintendent Robert J. Alely. Dr. Alely has spoken in Seymour on previous occasions and he is always heard with interest. His address tonight will be well worth hearing.

In order to meet the expenses of the evening the admission to any part of the house has been placed at ten cents, and the house should be crowded.

Ball Game Tomorrow.

The Boston Bloomers will be here tomorrow to play a local team on the West Second street diamond. They are playing Crothersville this afternoon. On Sunday afternoon they defeated the Strong Louisville Reserves by a score of fourteen to four. The Courier-Journal gives an extended account of the game and reports that they hit the ball to all parts of the field. It was an easy victory and only six hits were secured off Miss Florence Wood, pitcher for the Bloomers. The Bloomer team is made up entirely of girls, with the exception of the short stop and the catcher. The attendance at yesterday's game was about 1,200. The Bloomers have a private car and have won eight games out of sixteen so far this season.

Base Ball.

The Bedford base ball team won from the Seymour M. W. A. team Sunday afternoon by a score of five to three. The game was played on the Bedford diamond and, according to some of the Seymour players, the game was lost by Seymour on account of beginning before their pitcher was warmed up. Bedford made four of their scores in the first inning and the other one in the seventh. A large crowd witnessed the game, which was played at Washington park. Terry and Donica was the battery for Bedford and Bennett and Broeker for Seymour. Quite a crowd went over from Seymour to witness the game.

Special Berry Train.

The I. C. & S. and the I. & L. traction lines put on a special berry car last week, which runs on through Seymour without change and makes the round trip daily. The car passes Seymour, north bound, about ten p.m. and returns during the morning. The regular local freight cars continue to make their runs as usual, the freight being transferred at Seymour.

New Factory.

The work of installing the machinery in the Carter glove and mitten factory, which will be opened in a short time, is progressing rapidly. There is still considerable work to be done on the machinery, but Mr. Carter believes that he will be able to have the plant in operation by the time he first set. The company now has orders for over 3,000 dozen pairs of gloves and mittens.

Big Corn Buying.

G. H. Anderson handled 224 loads of corn at his elevator last week making a total of about 10,000 bushels. Some of the best corn in the country was bought for these shipments. The price paid was 60 cents, but this week there has been a drop of two cents and the price now paid is 58 cents.

CROPS SUFFER

Farmers Report That Growing Crops Are Injured By Heavy Rains.

The farmers throughout the country report that some of the growing crops are injured to some extent by the heavy spring rains, and that the loss will be much greater unless there are several weeks of dry weather in a very short time. At the present time the wheat is in excellent condition, and those who are acquainted with the conditions in Jackson county declare that there will be the largest wheat crop this year that there has been during the past twenty years. The wheat is heading out in fine shape, and, under all probabilities, will be ready to harvest in less than a month.

In several counties in southern Indiana there have been reports that the Hessian fly has appeared again and there is danger that much damage will be done by this enemy to the wheat. There have been no reports, however, that the fly has appeared in the wheat fields of this county, and it is not believed that any damage will be done by the fly this year.

The majority of the farmers have already planted their corn, and in some fields it is up several inches, and in fine condition. The grain men are expecting an unusually large corn crop this year, and are making arrangements, even at this time to handle many thousands of bushels.

The continued wet weather is proving very injurious to the strawberries and fruit growers declare that much of the fruit will be lost unless there is a period of dry weather. The prospects, at the present time, under favorable conditions, are for a large crop and the berry growers are expecting to ship them in large quantities in a few days' time. It is also predicted that there will be a large supply of other fruits this summer. Especially is this true of apples and plums.

Market men in the larger cities report that the prices of all kinds of fruits will be more reasonable this year than they have been for several years. This will be due, largely, to the large supply which is expected from all parts of the country.

Returns Home.

W. E. Hutchinson, a prominent lumber dealer of Marvell, Ark., and his brother, V. A. Hutchinson, who holds a good position with the Standard Oil Company at Bridgeport, Ill., have returned home after paying a short visit to their father, W. G. Hutchinson, the West Brown street grocer. They came here on account of the serious illness of their father, who was not so low when they arrived as they had expected to find him. W. E. Hutchinson is operating a sawmill and hurried home to look after business affairs.

Fly Damages Wheat.

The Hessian fly is said to be doing great damage to the growing wheat crop in southern Indiana counties. Many Knox county farmers report the damage is to such an extent that not more than one-third of the normal yield will result. The warm weather in March furnished an excellent opportunity for the fly to breed and the continued wet weather since has made matters even worse.

MOON ECLIPSE.

Will Compete for Honors With Halley's Comet This Evening.

A total eclipse of the moon will compete with Halley's comet for honors this evening, and if the clouds clear away, a most unusual scene will be visible. An eclipse of the moon is always viewed with much interest, and especially so when it may be seen in the same evening with Halley's comet which appears only one time in every seventy-five years.

The total eclipse of the moon will be visible at 11:26 o'clock and continue until 12:17 o'clock Tuesday morning. The moon enters the penumbra at 8:49 and goes into the earth's shadow at 10:03 o'clock. The moon will leave the shadow at 1:39 a. m.

Halley's comet was visible again Sunday evening, but only for a few minutes, because of the heavy clouds. It was seen about 8:30 between two clouds. The comet was high in the heavens and almost directly west. It is said that if the clouds clear away this evening it will be the best time to see the heavenly stranger. The comet is fast receding and the astronomers declare that at the end of the week it will have almost entirely disappeared.

ANT KILLING NOT HIS DUTY.

Not a Part of the Functions of the State Entomologist.

According to an opinion delivered to B. W. Douglass, state entomologist, by James Bingham, attorney-general, the entomologist has no authority to use his name, or money appropriated for his office, in the extermination of white ants, a plague of which is now attracting considerable attention in various parts of the state. According to the wording of the opinion the entomologist's duties are confined, in handling insects, to such insects as infect fruit and shade trees. As interpreted by Mr. Bingham, he has no authority to make visits to any part of the state, on the state's time to aid in the extermination of the house fly, a procedure in which Mr. Douglass is very much interested.

A large number of calls have been received by the entomologist asking that he give his time to extermination insects other than orchard and nursery stock pests. These requests prompted Mr. Douglass to ask for an opinion.

Recently the ants became so troublesome to a resident of Mitchell that he was compelled to leave his home, until some means could be arranged to exterminate them.

Mr. Grelle a Busy Farmer.

John Grelle, who went to Amarillo, Texas, recently, is putting out a crop on his farm which he recently purchased there of Omer Rinehart. He expects soon to have the entire farm of 160 acres under cultivation. He already has about 80 acres planted in Indian corn, Kaffir corn, milo maize, and oats. Some of his crops are said to look about the best of any in the locality. He has in thirty acres of oats and expects to put in some millet and a field of broom corn. His farm is about four miles southeast of Amarillo and is only about two or three miles from the section that is owned by Louis Wright, of near Jonesville. Mr. Grelle thinks he has a special bargain in his farm and from the reports that are coming from there he will have the evidence to prove his assertion when it comes time to market his crops later in the summer. With a half dozen different crops the first year he will have a good chance to test the relative values of the different crops.

The reason a foolish man talks too much is because he doesn't know when to stop.

A father's experience makes him the best adviser of his daughter, says the president of a girls' school. Perhaps "should make him" would come a little nearer the truth. There is a great difference in fathers.

Germany is excited over the discovery of the skull of a prehistoric man near Heidelberg. Of course, such a discovery is interesting, but what the world particularly needs just now are live men—very much so.

A Chicago man wants a divorce because his wife, after drinking heavily, saw dragons coming from her shoes, and also because she had a code of window signals whereby she would let her affinity know when she was alone in the house. We don't believe any fair-minded man or woman will insist that this husband is unreasonably anxious to be free.

Little Princess Yolanda of Italy had a tiny sewing machine as a present on her 6th birthday, and has her daily stint of sewing to do, either by hand or machine. How many little American girls are brought up as sensibly? What a royal princess is taught to do cannot be beneath the dignity of other children, and yet there are too many homes where girls and boys whose work is not needed for the support of the family are allowed to grow up in ignorance of the simple and wholesome activities of housewifery and household management.

Here and there and everywhere are to be found the man and the woman who "never have time." They would read good books if they had the time. They would visit the sick and the needy, but somehow they have not the time. They would call on their friends, cultivate good fellowship and add to the comforts of living, but they have so many other things to do that they cannot find time for this. They deceive themselves and think they are deceiving others. They are not. "Never have the time" simply because they do not take the time. Doers always have the time to do. Busy men always find time to complete their tasks.

Sympathizers with the Russian revolutionists will insist that nothing has been erased from the score against the Czar's government by the recent acquittal of Nicholas Tschakovsky and the conviction of Madame Breshkovskaya, accused of plotting against the government. They maintain that both should have been acquitted. Nevertheless, Russia might have been more severe. Madame Breshkovskaya is to be exiled to Siberia; that is, she must live in Siberia under the surveillance of government officers, and is no longer free to come and go at her pleasure. The fact that she was not condemned to hard labor suggests that the force of the sentiment of the world may have had some influence upon the Russian courts.

Among the many explanations of the origin of the modern observance of All Fools' day is that it dates from the adoption of the Gregorian calendar in France in 1582. Prior to that time the year began with March 25th, and the feasting and merrymaking lasted till April 1st, when gifts were exchanged among friends and kinsfolk. Waggish persons who wished to see whether their friends remembered the change in the calendar got into the habit of making mock gifts on the first of April, and when the packages were opened they would exclaim in glee, "Poisson d'Avril!" that is, "April fish," or a young, gullible fish. The custom was transferred to England, where it was noted by the writers at the beginning of the eighteenth century. The practical jokes played then were much like those which appeal to the youth at the present time. It is not wise to carry the joking too far, however, as a French lady discovered when she took a friend's watch as an April-fool joke. She forced the police to search all over town for it, and when they found it in her possession she laughed merrily and cried, "Poisson d'Avril!" The judge, when he heard the case, also cried, "Poisson d'Avril!" and sentenced the joker to prison till the next April 1st. Some authorities, however, find the origin of the custom in Matthew xxix:2.

We have been congratulating ourselves during the past few decades on the evidence which the mortality tables afford of the increased average duration of human life. Some two or three hundred years ago the average longevity in the civilized countries of Europe was only 20 to 30 years. Now, in the chief city of this country, swept by the healthful sea-breezes, where the streets are kept fairly clean and the general sanitation is good, the average is some 44 years. This argues gratifying progress in sanitary and medical science. The measurable cessation of wars is of course a factor. Three hundred years ago the world was in an almost chronic condition of warfare. The finest manhood was offered as a perpetual sacrifice in field and camp. But it is a question if the immense loss of life in modern hazardous industries does not very nearly equal the loss in old-time wars. Nevertheless science and better mode of living are obviously entitled to a large credit item. But it is somewhat discouraging to be confronted by an array of statistics recently put forth by a competent medical authority, designed to show that the gain in longevity is almost entirely in the decrease in infant mortality. Not that it is a bad thing to save the babies, but because such a fact would argue that there has been no real increase in the duration of productive human life. It is averred by the medical expert that the main triumph of modern medicine is among the infants and children. A much larger proportion now grow to adult years; but intemperance in eating and drinking, toil, worry and neurasthenia, carry off as many adults as ever. If this is correct, the doctor and the dietician have still an expansive missionary field in which to labor. It is a pity to save the youth until they reach an age to become useful and then doom them to an early demise. The adult should learn to regulate his health with the same intelligence that the doctor and nurse use in dealing with the adolescent.

A Man of Judgment.

When the new summer boarder spoke regretfully of the timidity of her two children, she was amazed to see a look of delight spread across the leathern countenance of Amos Hodder. "That's a good telling," he said, heartily. "Never you fear, ma'am, but that I can give 'em some good times, now I know they are the scared kind. They can go haywining with me, and riding, and out in the barn-yard anywhere they please. It's the brave children, the kind that aren't afraid of anything, that scare me."

"Yes, ma'am," he went on, seeing the boarder's bewilderment. "It's the boys that'll try to ride the old turkey-gobbler, and pat Jimma—that's the cross cow—and milk Wilhelmina—she isn't an overly good-dispositioned cow—and want to drive the colt, that make me tremble."

"There was a little girl here with her ma one summer. She went right out on the front stoop in the middle of a thunder tempest with a pair of shears in her hand to fasten 'em with wire to the lightning-rod and 'see what would happen.' And she tried to 'soothe' one of the kittens when 'twas having a fit."

"I said to the mas in both cases, 'Isn't that child o' yours afraid of anything on this earth?' and they both made answer, 'No.' They allowed neither o' those children knew the meaning of the word fear; they 'had been brought up to know that all things were good.'"

"I let them stay their time out each summer, but I never got caught again with either of 'em. And I can tell you one thing, if those children had been spanked by me the way they'd ought t've been, they'd have known there was one thing that wasn't 'good' forever after."

An Interruption.

Among the primary pupils enrolled in a Baltimore school this term is the son of a prominent business man of that city.

One afternoon at close of school the youngster sought out his father in his office, to whom he said:

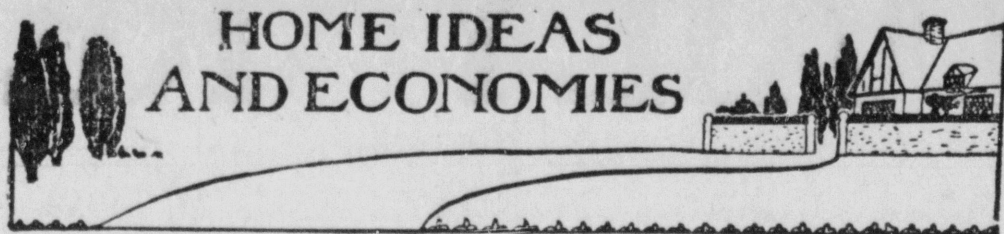

"Dad, I'm getting tired of school. I think I'll quit."

"Why," asked the astonished parent, "what's the matter, Tommy? I thought you were fond of going to school."

"So I am, dad," responded the youngster, suppressing a yawn, "but it breaks up the day so."—Harper's Magazine.

FORGIVE AND FORGET.

When girls fall out and say, "I will forgive, but I can't forget," they are really only saying, "I won't forgive you." True forgiveness ought to be like a cancelled debt which is torn in two and destroyed so effectually that it can never be brought into evidence again.—Woman's Life.

MALE FRIENDSHIP.

Remarks have been made lately as regards the apparent decline of close personal friendships between men. Perhaps something in our busy modern life accounts for our lower note in masculine friendships. Perhaps, too, much that belonged to interchanges between man and man, is now possible between man and man as equals.—Indianapolis News.

TRUE HOSPITALITY.

A woman who possesses a charming temper and cordial manners is sure to be popular. Said a witty Boston woman: "I do like to have people behave as if they were glad to see me, whether they are or not. I think a hostess should speak in a pleasant tone, even if she only says, 'My dear Mrs. So-and-so, I am perfectly delighted to see you! Do sit right down on this bent pin!'"—Harper's Bazar.

HOUSEWORK GOWNS.

In planning one's morning dresses, dresses which are really to be worn when doing the housework, there are two big, important things to remember: First, select dresses which are easy to get into; second, have them smart and becoming in line. Of course, there are other little details well worth remembering, such as avoiding much trimming, having the material well adapted to the purpose of the dress and having the general style neat and trim.—Grace Margaret Gould in Woman's Home Companion.

THE WISDOM OF AMUSEMENT.

The wise woman will do well to remember in her daily round that:

Amusements that encroach on the hours sacred to sleep are forms of enjoyment to be censured.

Amusements that take one away from necessary work are bound to be harmful, because they produce neglect of and unfaithfulness to duty.

Amusements that rouse or stimulate morbidity and produce unrest or discontent should always be avoided.

Any amusements that weaken spiritual belief or holds up the properties to mockery is the greatest form of injury.—Home Notes.

ADVISE ON SPONGING.

An authority on sponging materials advises cutting, or rather snipping, all along the selvedge edges of the cloth to be sponged before wetting. Then instead of the usual method of laying the material flat and rolling in the damp sheet, he says:—"Lay the goods, if single width, face downward, and if double, folded as it comes from the store on a blanket. Cover with a damp cloth and press with a hot iron. There must be no uneven places or the result will be a gloss in spots. Take away the dampened cloth and iron the material until dry. Do a small piece at a time."—New York Telegram.

PROMISES LIKE PIE-CRUSTS.

"I have such a pretty, new song," said a friend to me the other day. "I'll bring it round for you to try over tomorrow."

Tomorrow came, but no song; it probably never will come now. Some people are great at making promises, but just as great at breaking them. Of course, it's only forgetfulness, but that is really no excuse. If you have a bad memory, safe-guard it by jotting down in a notebook a little memorandum of the promises you make, just as a small reminder. A glance at this book the first thing every morning will not occupy a minute, and may save some one a bitter disappointment.—Home Chat.

PAPERING BEDROOMS.

The fondness for colonial effects in bedrooms grows and holds. Plain or self-tone paper runs to the ceiling with tiny lowered borders, not more than two inches wide. Often these are brought down in the angle of the room as a frame work. There is a fancy to have every bedroom on a floor papered in the same way merely with changes of tone. Thus in a northeast bedroom have a paper of soft creamy yellow, soft old rose for a northwest room, silvery gray for a south room and old blue for southeast room. The papers should be of the same texture and treated as to frieze, border or molding in similar style.—New Haven Register.

THE MAGIC HATBOX.

To travel with a minimum of luggage and yet appear well dressed on all occasions is an end which most women travellers would like to attain, but to which few do. A woman who considers that she has solved the problem believes it to be all a matter of hats.

Change of gowns is easily provided for, soft, uncrushable silks take up almost no room, but a change of hats seems out of the question. Yet this woman has found that the desired variety can be secured with the aid of a box no larger than a man's collar box. With what she puts into that box, which fits into a corner of her steamer trunk, she can turn her one traveling hat into four other hats with five minutes' work at each change.

This is how she does it: She travels in a black straw turban, which has a bandeau of black velvet twisted so that it fits upon her hair like a brim, with a bow on the left side. In the box she carries other bandeaux made in the same way, with some diversity of bow or loop arrangement. These bandeaux are of warm brown, cerise, delft blue and white. It only takes a minute to unhook the black bandeau and substitute the one which looks best with the waist or suit she wants to wear.

When very dressy occasions arise, if she cares to wear a hat she puts the white velvet brim on the toque, and over all she drapes a black Chantilly scarf, following the folds in the straw and letting the finished edge of the lace lie over the white velvet.—New York Tribune.

Cocoanut Cream Candy—One cocoanut, 1-2 pounds granulated sugar; put sugar and milk of cocoanut together; heat slowly until sugar is melted; then boil five minutes; add cocoanut finely grated; boil 10 minutes longer; stir constantly to keep from burning; pour on buttered plate; cut in squares; will take a day to harden; use prepared cocoanut when other cannot be had.

Raspberry Tapioca Pudding—A simple and delicious dessert may be made by cooking 1 cupful of pearl tapioca in 1 quart of water in a double boiler until the tapioca becomes clear. Then add 1 cupful of sugar and 1 can of preserved raspberries. Plain or whipped cream should be served with this dessert.

Date Pudding—One pound dates, 2 handfuls of English walnuts, 1-2 cup water, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, whites of 3 eggs. Stone dates. Chop dates and walnuts quite fine. Place on stove with water and sugar and cook until a creamy paste—stirring all the time. Next add to it the beaten whites of the eggs. Add vanilla. Cook in oven 15 minutes. Eat cold with whipped cream.

Raisin Pie—Boil together for one hour 1 pound raisins (covered with water), juice of 1 lemon and 1 cup granulated sugar. Thicken liquid with 2 tablespoons flour and add 2 tablespoons butter, while hot, beaten well into the mixture. Bake with two crusts.

Best Doughnuts—One cup sugar, 1 cup sour milk, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1 tablespoonful melted butter, 2 teaspoons baking powder and 1-2 teaspoon soda. Salt and nutmeg, flour enough to roll easily.

Hermits That Never Fail—Three eggs, 1-2 cups sugar, 1-2 cup butter, 1-2 cup milk, all kinds of spice, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1-2 teaspoon soda, salt, 1 cup chopped raisins, flour to roll soft. Better to roll on floured cloth.

Butternut Bread—Take one and a half quarts of flour, to this add one cupful of your bread sponge in the morning. Mix this with two pints of luke-warm milk and add the cropped meats of the butternuts. Set in a warm place to raise; then knead it into loaves and bake in an even oven.

Bacon and Cheese Sandwiches—Take round of sandwich bread, cut off crust before slicing, slice bread in pieces one half inch thick. Mix one slightly beaten egg with one jar of club cheese, pinch of salt, and red pepper. Butter bread with plenty of cheese, put on top three slices of crisply fried bacon and put under broiler until cheese is melted. This makes a delicious sandwich of toasted bread, melted cheese and broiled bacon.

In Liberia coffee trees attain a height of more than twenty feet. The price of the product is 8 and 9 cents a pound at the plantation.

THE PRODIGAL DAUGHTER

In all that has been written about organized women and their interests, no work seems to be so thoroughly appreciated as that of Rheta Childe Dorr in Hampton's Magazine. Her economic series on "What Eight Million Women Want" elicited praise all over the country from active women workers. Her new series—"The Prodigal Daughter" bids fair to eclipse anything she has done; certainly it is far more important than anything else yet written on the subject. It is a careful, statistical treatment of the subject of fallen women, and the causes responsible for their condition. Many women's club are taking up the work of not only reformation but also of prevention.

One contributing cause, says Mrs. Dorr, is the dance hall.

"The crowded tenement, the city slum, an oppressive system of ill-paid labor, these are evils which a gradually developing social conscience must one day eliminate," says Mrs. Dorr.

The joy of life, inherent in every young creature, including the young human creature, seeks expression in play, in merriment, and will not be denied.

"The oldest, the most persistent, the most attractive, the most satisfying expression of the joy of life is the dance. The charm, the passion, the lure of the dance remains perennial. It never wholly disappears. It always returns.

"In New York City alone there are three hundred saloon dance halls. Three hundred dens of evil where every night in the year gallons of liquid damnation are forced down the throats of unwilling drinkers! Where the bodies and souls of thousands of girls are annually destroyed! Because the young are irresistibly drawn toward joy, and because we, all of us, good people, busy people, indifferent people, unseeing people, have permitted joy to become commercialized, have turned it into a commodity to be used for money profit by the worst elements in society.

"New York is by no means unique. Every city has its dance-hall problem. Every small town has its girl and boy problem; every countryside its tragedy of the girl who goes to the city and never returns.

"It is strange that nowhere, until lately, in city, town, or country, has it occurred to anyone that the community owed anything to this insatiable thirst for joy.

"Women have recognized the debt, and they are preparing to pay it.

"In this latest form of social service they have entered a battlefield where the powers of righteousness have ever fought a losing fight. Men have grappled with the problem without success. Women believe that they have discovered an altogether new way in which to fight the evil. They propose to turn against it its own most powerful weapons. The joy of life is to be fed with proper food instead of poison.

"In Chicago the campaign has begun superbly. Fourteen of the city parks are provided with municipal dance halls, the first in the United States. These halls are housed in spacious buildings with perfect floors, good light, and ventilation. Any group of young people are at liberty to secure a hall, rent free, for dancing parties. The city imposes only one condition, that the dances be chaperoned by park supervisors. Beautifully decorated with growing plants from the park greenhouses, the municipal dance halls are scenes of gayety almost every night in the year. Restaurants in connection with the halls furnish good food at low prices. Of course, no liquor is sold. Nobody wants it. This is proved by the fact that saloon dance halls in the neighborhood of the parks have been deserted by their old patrons.

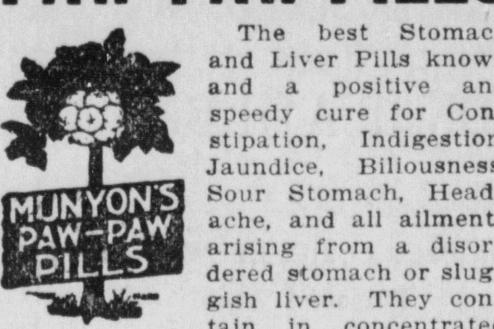

"In many cities, women's clubs and women's societies are establishing on a small scale amusement and recreation centers for young people. In New York, Miss Virginia Potter and her colleagues in the Association of Working Girls' Clubs have opened a public dance hall. The use of the large gymnasium of the Manhattan Trade School for Girls was secured and every Saturday evening, from eight until eleven, young people come in and dance to excellent music, under the instruction, if they need it, of a skilled dancing master. A small fee is charged partly to attract a class of people who disdain philanthropy and settlements. As many as two hundred couples have been admitted in an evening."

Arabia's Wild Coffee Trees.

The Arab name for coffee is gabweh, meaning wine. The wild coffee tree is twenty feet high, a most attractive, beautiful evergreen. It has snow-white flowers, exhaling a ravishing perfume, and its deep scarlet berry pods make exquisite contrasts through the greater part of the year, for this green, almost spiritual visitant, blooms eight or nine months.—New York Press.

Vacuum suction combs are now in use in stables to curry horses. An electrically driven fan produces the necessary vacuum.

Chance for Investment.

It isn't often a poor man or woman can get in on "the ground floor" of a big corporation, but the Mann Indicator Company makes an offer in this paper under the heading, "An Opportunity—Grasp It," which should interest everyone with a dollar to invest.

It is protected by patents and a monopoly. It promises to be a bigger money earner even than "the Bell telephone," and $100,000 in Bell telephone increased to $400,000 and paid over $200,000 in dividends.

Subtle Flattery.

Waiters Nos. 1 and 2 peeped out at the baldheaded man, then ducked behind the screen.

"None of him for me," said Waiter No. 1. "He doesn't tip."

"Same here," said Waiter No. 2. "I'll fix him," said Waiter No. 3.

He took an order for soup. Before serving it he showed the two mutineers a hair floating on the surface of the soup. They marveled then, and they marveled still more when at the end of the baldheaded man's dinner the waiter returned with a dollar bill.

"Ninety-nine baldheaded men in a hundred can be worked that way," he said. "If the customer doesn't see the hair himself I call his attention to it and make him think it fell out of his own head. The fact that he had a hair to lose so appeals to his vanity that he loves me for finding it and gives me a tip big enough to cover the cost of a dozen plates of soup."—Chicago Tribune.

WOMEN'S ILLS.

Many women who suffer with backache, bearing-down pain, headaches and nervousness do not know that these ailments are usually due to trouble with the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills remove the cause.

Mrs. M. McFadden, Iowa City, Iowa, says: "I would have died had it not been for Doan's Kidney Pills. For years I suffered from terrible backaches. I gradually grew worse until I had to take to my bed, where I lay unconscious. I began using Doan's Kidney Pills after the doctors had failed to help me and was completely cured. # RAILROADS in A GREAT STRUGGLE for SHARES in A BLACK KLONDIKE

A Little Section of Southern Illinois into which $20,000,000 has been poured in the last few years, making PLUTOCRATS of PLAIN FARMERS and building CITIES where before were open fields. —

The marvelous COAL FIELDS of WILLIAMSON and adjoining Counties, and how Railroad Kings are battling for them.

MAP SHOWING PRESENT RAILROAD HOLDINGS in the WILLIAMSON COUNTY COAL INTERESTS.

IN THE heart of Southern Illinois—in "Little Egypt," once a term of derision, but now synonymous with prosperity and modern progress—a section of perhaps a thousand square miles, embracing parts of four counties and not all of any one of them, has developed almost untold wealth and has become the theater of struggles none the less titanic because the outer world has not heard much of them, so silently have they been carried on. Fortunes have been made, and, what is more marvelous, have not been lost, in the rapid advancement of the section. Communities have grown prosperous far beyond the dreams of the earlier settlers, and their prosperity continues. Within these precincts the busy hum of trade has never been stilled. "Everybody who wants to is making money," is the way one of the busiest of business men puts it.

Such in brief and in general terms is the recent history of the immense and new coal-producing area of Williamson, Franklin, Saline and Jackson counties. There lie the immense deposits of bituminous coal, which in a few short years have brought Williamson County from a negligible part of the coal-producing State of Illinois to the very first rank in the coal counties of the commonwealth, now fifty-five in number, and every one of them high in the race of fuel production. How this has come about, all within less than a decade, if we neglect the little local shafts which have existed merely for provision of home consumption, makes an interesting chapter in the history of Illinois which has not yet been written. Such history is compressed within that decade, indeed, in large part within the last half of that decade, as to be almost unbelievable were not the confirmation so ready to hand. And the end is not yet, for with it all scarcely more than a quarter of the total coal-bearing area is in the hands of actively operating companies. The other three-quarters is still held by the original owners, some even held under the original government patents without a single transfer since the days of the homestead, of the "bit act," when land was purchasable for 12½ cents per acre, and of the $1.25 act. The railroad struggle for traffic and ownership supremacy is still on, beneath the surface. New lines are to be built, new surveys are being made, and with the coming of the Panama canal this little section of Illinois will bear its share not alone in the production of long-haul tonnage to the gulf ports, but in the provision of the power for other tonnage, and as a centering point for the big transportation lines which are reaching out for the gulf coast against the time when the annual traffic will have its weight with the movement of freight from the Northwest and from all the Middle West and the Upper Mississippi valley.

Such railroad kings as Hill, Gould and Yoakum all have had their eyes glued upon this favored spot, and all have shown their interest in the grasp which they already have upon it, but there is more to be done, and more will be done, even though it be silently and without the sounding of brass.

All this by way of explanation, for the sudden accretion of wealth in the heart of Little Egypt has come about through the railroad battle for coal and coal traffic. The other developments have been concurrent with it and are only to be understood with the aid of this knowledge. Every move that has been made has been in the silence so characteristic of the railroads when they reach out for anything they really want, and with these moves have come the rapid growth of town and country and the sudden increase in individual prosperity. The last decade has seen Harrisburg grow from a village of 1,000 or more souls to a thriving inland city of 12,000, with national banks, handsome business blocks, beautiful churches and paved streets.

Herrin, laid out but fifteen years ago, is to-day a town of more than 10,000, and is still growing at a rate hard to conceive. Marion has sprung from 1,200 to 12,000 within the same time, while Johnston City, once but a prairie site, and that but a half dozen years ago, is a thriving place of 6,000, with its modern conveniences and up-to-date structures equal to the pride of many a larger town. Benton, which is the county capital of Franklin and once ruled the country round with the majesty of 1,000 residents, is now a busy place of 8,000, with the end not yet.

Many an interesting story is told of the earlier residents of the section, of the days when coal was not figured among the assets of the farmers and the pioneers of Illinois, especially the Illinois days of Dickens and his "American Notes." One is of Charles Carroll of Shawneetown, to whom fell a stretch of land upon which he was inclined to refuse to pay the taxes. It all came about in this wise: In the early days of Little Egypt, Goodall and Campbell of Marion were tobacco factors, shipping heavily to Europe and conducting a business which was large for those days. By wreck at sea and defeat in their bottomry they were sent to the wall and their assets largely fell into the hands of Sawyer, Wallace & Co. of New York, also in the same line of business. For a number of years the land remained in the possession of the New York firm, which planned to develop it as farming land, and sent a Col. Manning out to look after it. He scarcely proved a success, though this is of no moment, for before he was able to work out his plans for the development of the tract the New Yorkers failed in their turn and in their settlement the land was turned over to Carroll in partial adjustment of a claim of some $40,000. Carroll had doubts about the value of his new property and was on the point of refusing to pay the taxes, when his caution prevailed and he decided to hold the land a while and take the risk of the few additional dollars it cost him. The rest of the story is quickly told. The real extent of the coal deposits became known and a part only of the Carroll holding was sold for $400,000, or ten times the bankruptcy claim of the owner. This is but a single instance. There are many more.

Still another instance—and this of having one's cake and eating it, too. A conductor on one of the roads running through the coal district became possessed in the early days of a tract of perhaps 250 acres of land on which he did little save rent it out and pay the taxes, for he continued in the service of his road. Only recently he became incapacitated for railroad work and determined to quit the work. Almost at the same time he received an offer for the coal rights of his possession, which he had permitted, almost, to lie fallow. The offer was $25,000, and this conductor will retire, put his coal rights price out at interest and then farm the surface of his holding, for it is still his.

The geological estimates of the coal-bearing area included within the thousand or so square miles referred to are that the seams which are now being worked are capable of outputting approximately 9,000 tons per acre—this without considering other seams not now considered of value, but which, in the event of higher prices and shorter supplies, would eventually become of marketable character. Inasmuch as the field embraces something like 600,000 acres, it is easy to calculate the total deposit as in excess of 5,000,000,000 tons of coal of a quality which has rapidly made its impress upon the coal-consuming world. Basing values upon the lowest leasing basis, 3 cents per ton, the coal values alone represent a land value in the neighborhood of $150,000,000, and the land is still left to farmers, one of the richest of agricultural sections whose productive value, even before the mining of coal began, was considered the peer of any in the State.

ON BOARD A LEPER SHIP

Three Thousand Afflicted Were Transferred to Philippine Isolation Pen.

STORY OF AMERICAN SAILOR.

Heartrending Scenes When Relatives and Friends Attempted to Rescue the Victims.

"Alf" Jorgenson, second mate of the American ship Atlas, in port from the far east, is back in his native land after an absence of three years, with a thrilling narrative of his experience during that time, says the New York Evening Telegram. Jorgenson hails from Seattle and shipped on a sailing vessel from San Francisco three years ago. He landed in the Philippines, and there attached himself to one of the numerous coast guard steamers maintained by the government to patrol the coasts of the islands and keep down the piratical Moros, whose main desire in life is to murder the pearl divers and destroy the native industries of the Philippines.

"After a year on various coast guard steamers doing patrol duty," said young Jorgenson to-day, "I was transferred to the Basilian, also a coast guard vessel, which, however, had been detailed to transfer lepers from the various ports of the Philippines to Culion island. For three months we transferred hundreds of the lepers to the isolation pen on Culion.

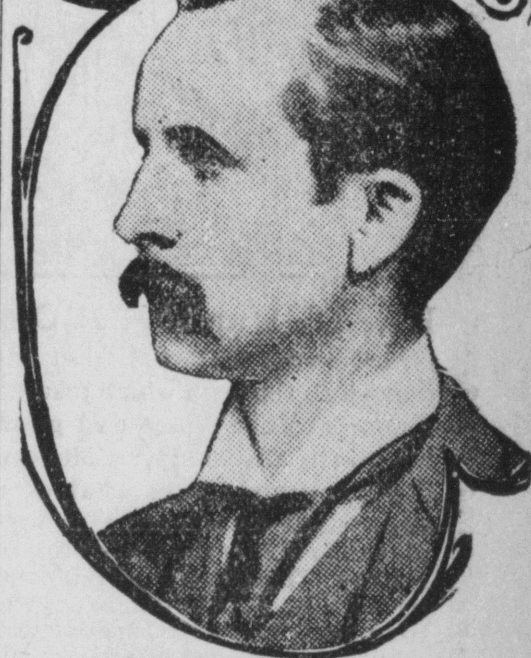

"While the American officers used every kindness and gentleness in the work of taking away the unfortunates from the villages and towns to the lonely island, they often had to use force to prevent rescues by friends and relatives. Sometimes the scenes were heartrending when families had to be separated because there was no room for the lepers to take their kin to Culion.

"In many instances the Moros, under the pretext of assisting the friends and relatives of the lepers, would attack us, and on one occasion a numerous force surrounded the Basilian, but were repulsed.

"As leprosy is not contagious to the European or American, none of us were afraid to handle the lepers. Three months of this was enough for all of us on the Basilian, and to a man we asked for a transfer to another steamer. Capt. T. A. Hillgrove, who, by the way, is a New York man, was in command of the Basilian. All in all, we transferred about 3,000 lepers in the three months we were on this detail. I quit the leprosy transfer work in August of last year and a month later shipped on the Atlas, bound for home."

AUTHOR, AND WOMAN HE GAVE TO ANOTHER MAN AS RUSKIN DID.

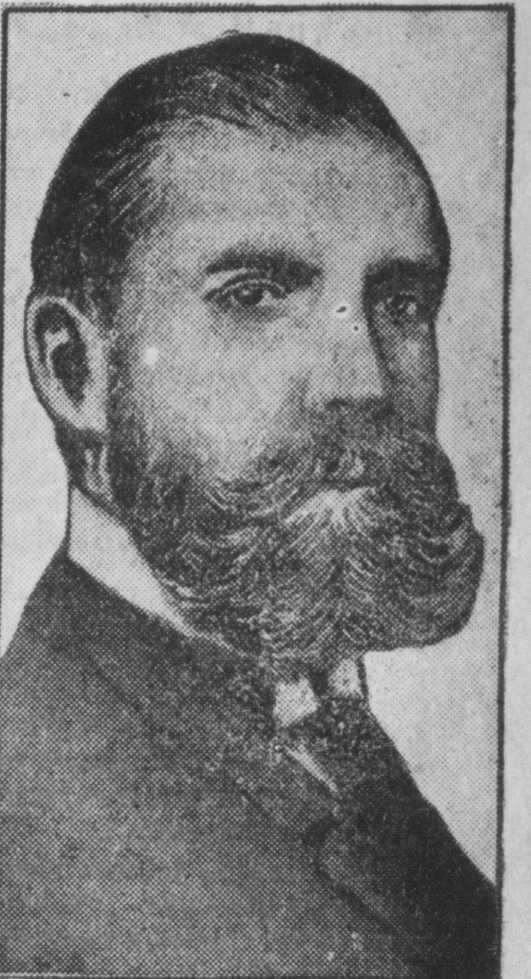

J. M. BARRIE.

John Ruskin's world famous act in giving his wife to his friend, Sir John Millais, has been duplicated by J. M. Barrie, author of modern days. The divorce which Barrie sought in England, when he found that his wife loved Gilbert Cannon, a young dramatic critic, has been made absolute and the infatuated couple is free to wed. Barrie gave his former wife a deed to a palatial home at Frimham and $750 a year income for life. The author admits that he dearly loves the woman he divorced, but for the sake of her happiness gave her to Cannon.

THE HIGHEST COURT of the LAND

Governor Hughes of New York, whom President Taft has named for the Supreme bench, is to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Brewer of Kansas. Justice Brewer was the second of his family to serve with Chief Justice Fuller in the capacity of associate justice. Stephen J. Field, whom Justice McKenna of San Francisco succeeded in 1897, was his uncle. Others who have been members of the court since Fuller was appointed by President Cleveland are Joseph P. Bradley of New Jersey, Stanley Matthews of Ohio, Horace Gray of Massachusetts, Samuel Blatchford of New York, Lufius Q. C. Lamar of Mississippi, Henry B. Brown of Michigan, George Shiras Jr. of Pennsylvania. Chief Justice Fuller is the oldest member of the court, though Justice Harlan, who is the oldest in point of service, having been a member since the Hayes administration of thirty-three years ago, is a close second. The baby of the court, William Henry Moody, is 57, while the other four range in age from 61 to 69, so the court is a living exemplification that old men are for counsel.

The honor and responsibility of naming the chief justice of this high tribunal is given to comparatively few Presidents. In the 120 years which have passed since the Supreme Court held its first session in the Exchange of the City of New York, Feb. 4, 1790, twenty-six men have served as President of the United States, but there have been only eight men to serve as chief justice. John Jay, John Rutledge, Oliver Ellsworth, John Marshall, Roger Brooke Taney, Salmon P. Chase, Morrison R. Waite and Melville Weston Fuller form the distinguished list. Marshall served the longest term, thirty-four years. He and Taney together covered a period of sixty-three eventful years.

In 1890 the centenary of the Supreme Court was celebrated with fitting ceremony in New York, the city where it first sat. At that celebration Edward S. Phelps said of this tribunal: "Judges will be appointed and will pass. One generation rapidly succeeds another. But whoever comes and whoever goes, the court remains, keeping alive through many a century we shall not see, the light that burns with a constant radiance upon the high altar of American constitutional justice."

MOUSE IN THE CHOIR.

During a service in the Presbyterian Church at Milford, Mich., a sly little mouse crept out from a hole in the wall and darted toward a row of young ladies who sat back of the pulpit and composed part of the choir. One of them espied the little rodent and instantly there was a hubbub which interrupted the service for several minutes. Skirts were hastily gathered together and the female singers quickly got off the floor, using their chairs as temporary retreats. Alarmed at the racket the mouse made off in another direction, to the relief of all present. The minister then resumed his sermon.

Avoiding the Difficult.

"By Jove, I find it quite impossible to lift my new style of spring hat to a lady, don't you know?"

"What can you do?"

"Cross the street, don't you know."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

PLAN OF THE ARENA FOR THE JEFF-JOHNSON FIGHT.

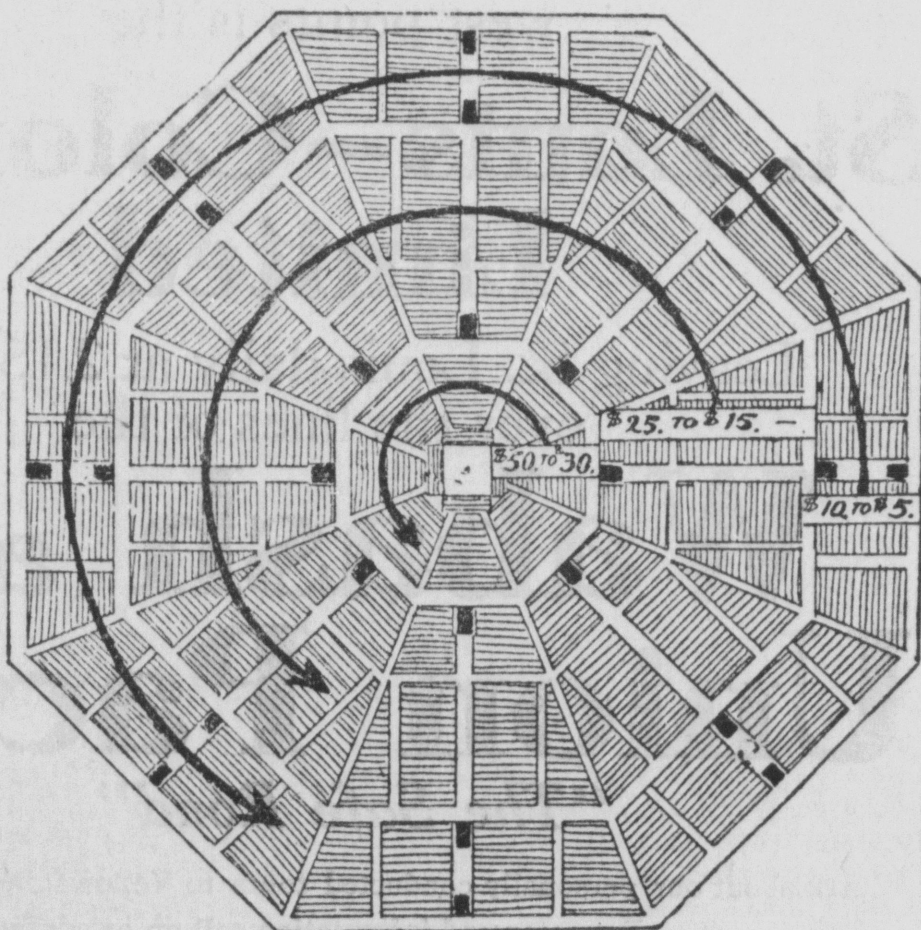

DIAGRAM OF THE SEAT PLAN OF THE FIGHT ARENA.

Those who are going to see the Jeffries and Johnson fight can glean some sort of an idea regarding the location of the seats from the accompanying reproduction of the architect's blue print of the seating scheme. Octagonal in form, the arena is planned to seat 30,000 at present, but it can be enlarged to accommodate twice that number should the occasion warrant. The highest priced seats will be $50. These will be ringside boxes. Right behind them are the $30 seats, then two divisions of $25 and $15 seats, and around the outside the $10 and $5 seats.

BOY LASSOES CAR AND IS DRAGGED FOUR BLOCKS.

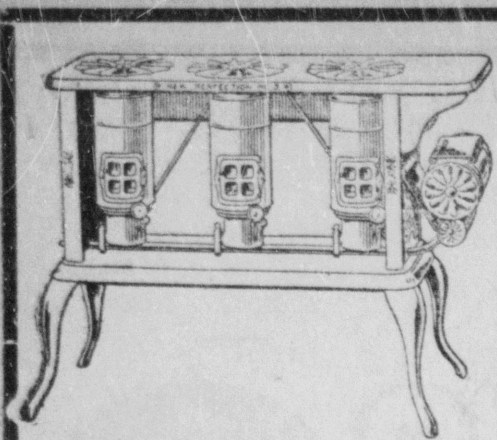

Playing "Wild West" with a rope tied around his body, the small son of Mortimer Duffield succeeded in lassoing the Port Norris trolley car near his home in Bridgeton, N. J. He was dragged behind the fast-moving car for nearly four squares. Then the conductor happened to turn around and noticed that something tied to the rope was being pulled along. He stopped the car, and the boy was found nearly unconscious and badly bruised. No bones were broken.

"Well, I guess the jobbers in that community will be able to handle her output."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

If John W. Kern knows of eight members of the state legislature who sold their votes in order that Benj. F. Shively might become senator, it is his duty, as a representative of the Democratic party, to reveal their names. If his accusation was an idle statement he is not the man who the people want in the United States senate.

May Lose Reward.

Brazil, Ind., May 23.—Because Arthur Green was sentenced to the penitentiary on the charge of burglarizing Miller & Son's store at Cloverland, instead of the postoffice, Patrolman Robert Gabbart will have to wait for a period of eight years until Green has completed his sentence and can be arraigned for the postoffice robbery, before he can claim the reward of $200 offered by the government for the arrest and conviction of the postoffice robbers.

Shortly after the arrest and conviction of Green here, Patrolman Gabbart received a blank from Chief Wilkie of the United States secret service, which he was asked to fill out in making application for the $200 reward for the conviction of the postoffice thieves.

In looking over the application it was discovered that the conviction of the robber on the charge of burglarizing the postoffice had to be set out and when the record was looked up in the circuit court it was found that Green had been sentenced to prison on the charge of burglarizing Miller & Son's store at Cloverland.

The local officers declare the matter was taken up with United States District Attorney Miller at the time, but that he did not pay any attention to the case, and for that reason Green was sentenced in the local courts for burglary instead of being tried on the charge of robbing three postoffices.

Fred Mackey made a short business trip to Brownstown this morning.

MORE PINKHAM CURES

Added to the Long List due to This Famous Remedy.

Oronogo, Mo.—"I was simply a nervous wreck. I could not walk across the floor without my heart fluttering and I could not even receive a letter. Every month I had such a bearing down sensation, as if the lower parts would fall out. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done my nerves a great deal of good and has also relieved the bearing down. I recommended it to some friends and two of them have been greatly benefited by it."—Mrs. MAE MCKNIGHT, Oronogo, Mo.

Another Grateful Woman.
St. Louis, Mo.—"I was bothered terribly with a female weakness and had backache, bearing down pains and pains in lower parts. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regularly and used the Sanative Wash and now I have no more troubles that way."—Mrs. AL HERZOG, 5722 Prescott Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women.

BOTH PARTIES INVITE FIGHT

Machine Methods Being Resisted At Indianapolis.

COURT MAY HAVE TO SETTLE IT

Anti-Machine Voters in Both the Old Parties at Indianapolis Declare That Ruling of Election Commissioners Regarding the Burning of Primary Ballots Is in the Interest of the "Machines" of the Respective Parties.

Indianapolis, May 23.—A question which is giving the anti-machine candidates for office in this county a great deal of uneasiness has come up in connection with the coming primaries tomorrow, and both Republicans and Democrats who are fighting the machines in their respective parties believe that the way has been opened for glaring frauds against the ballot. The primary election commissioners have ruled that all "undisputed" ballots must be destroyed by the officers of the election at each polling place and only those that are disputed shall be preserved.

The men who are fighting the two political machines charge that the destruction of the ballots will permit the election officers, all of whom are creatures of machines, to destroy all the ballots and thus make illegal voting possible, with no means afterward to verify the ballots if charges of fraud are made. At a meeting held Sunday it was decided to appeal to the courts for an order restraining the election officers from destroying any of the ballots. Many friends of candidates have been drawn into the controversy and hundreds have urged the election officers to reverse their ruling, but they refuse to do so.

BREAD ON THE WATERS

Servant Girl's Act of Kindness to Tramp Rewarded After Many Years.

Evansville, Ind., May 23.—Behind the crumpled and jagged piece of grocer's paper sacking with its faint and almost illegible scrawl of words filed before Probate Commissioner Hawkins as the only authentic will of Marshall McMurrin, demented miser, lies the story of a footsore and sickened tramp, a servant girl's samaritan act of feeding him bread and a cup of coffee and a reward, after twenty years, in the inheritance of all of his $60,000 estate. Mrs. Mattie Hannum of Vincennes, Ind., who was then Mattie Drain of Vincennes, came to Evansville and appeared before the probate commissioner to enter the small scrap of paper as the only real testament that McMurrin made. The will is dated Sept. 7, 1889, the date on which McMurrin begged at the door of William Coogan's house at Vincennes, where Miss Drain was then working, for something to eat.

The girl fed the tramp and he asked for a scrap of paper, upon which he wrote a will, duly witnessed, leaving to her all property of which he might be possessed. While never expecting to profit by the strange instrument, Miss Drain (now Mrs. Hannum) kept the paper, and when she heard a few days ago of the astonishing discovery made after McMurrin's death that the old man was wealthy, she prepared to assert her rights under the will.

Because of the size of McMurrin's estate and the close relationship of a number of the heirs, a hotly fought contest is inevitable. It is certain that McMurrin had at least $60,000 and some of those who knew him best believe he had nearly $100,000.

Martin Hobbs to Be Tried Again.

Hazleton, Ind., May 23.—The Loomiller murder case is set for trial tomorrow. County Prosecutor Trippet states that he has built up a strong case and intends to probe the crime to the bottom. Martin Hobbs, once tried for the murder of John C. Loomiller several years ago, is now in the county jail at Princeton. Hobbs was acquitted at the former trial and was rearrested because of certain statements he is said to have made.

Aged Woman Hangs Herself.

Anderson, Ind., May 23.—When Noah Whetsell, a prominent farmer living six miles south of the city, searched for his aged wife when she was missed at the house, he was astounded to find her lifeless body dangling from a rope in the meat-house. Mrs. Whetsell is said to have been despondent for the last few days. She was seventy-five years old and came to Madison county fifty years ago.

Indiana Stone Makes a Hit.

Bloomington, Ind., May 23.—To be chiseled into six beautiful statues and to occupy places in the Park Royale of Paris, France, a half dozen blocks of Monroe county stone, said to be the largest ever lifted out of an Indiana stone quarry, were sent on six of the heaviest flatcars to New York city, where they will be placed on a steamer for their final destination.

Will Meet at Evansville.

Dickson, Tenn., May 23.—Evansville, Ind., will entertain the next general assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian church. This was decided by acclamation after Paducah, Ky., and Warrensburg, Mo., had withdrawn from the race.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

The plans for the new postoffice building at Washington have arrived in that city and the contractors will begin figuring on them at once. The bids for the new building must be submitted to the supervising architect at Washington before June 20. The subcommittee of the appropriation committee of the House of Representatives recently recommended that $15,000 be appropriated for the purchase of a site for a post office for this city.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers will meet in international convention at St. Paul next month and expects to be in session for three weeks, as much important business will be considered. The organization includes firemen and engine men on most of the railroads in the United States and Mexico. New grand officers will be elected at that meeting.

Arthur Shawnessy, of Chicago, who has been employed here for several weeks with the Seymour Gas & Electric Light Company, left Sunday for his home. After spending a few days there with his mother he will go to Harvard, Ill. to remain a week or more where they have some business interests. From there he will go to Baraboo, Wis., where he will be located for some time. It is possible he may return here again later.

The work of tearing down the old school building is progressing rapidly and it is believed that the entire building will be down before the end of the week. Practically all of the third story has been taken down, and the workmen have begun to take out the joists on the second floor. When all the timbers have been removed, the wall will probably be thrown. The materials will be cleared away as rapidly as possible so that the construction of the new building can begin without delay.

Saves an Iowa Man's Life.

The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madison, of West Burlington, Iowa, when, after seven weeks in the hospital, four of the best physicians gave him up. Then was shown the marvelous curative power of Electric Bitters. Its positively guaranteed for Stomach, Liver or Kidney troubles and never disappoints. Only 50c, at Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

Do You Get Up

With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Home of Swamp-Root, Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

No Clew.

The police and detectives at Shelbyville were instructed to keep a sharp watch for the men who stole a pocket-book from Frank Milhous in this city Thursday evening, but the officers were unable to locate the pickpockets. The Robinson's shows gave two performances in that city Saturday and it was thought that the men might be with that company.

New Jersey Hawk Thought to Make Meal on Girl's Hat.

Singac, N. J., May 23.—While on her way to church yesterday Miss Margaret McPhail had an exciting experience with a huge chicken hawk, which made off with her chanticleer hat.

When near the schoolhouse on Pompton turnpike, she first noticed the hawk hovering over her, but paid no particular attention to it. The bird, after circling about and swinging nearer and nearer to her, suddenly swooped down on her head and seized the hat. It fluttered and pulled at the headgear, while Miss McPhail screamed. Two girl friends ran to her assistance. By that time the hatpins had worked loose and the hawk flew away with the headgear in its claws. When over the Passaic river the bird evidently discovered it had made a mistake and dropped the hat.

The Value of Style

YOU can't point directly to that feature of a suit or an overcoat which seems to give it style. You are able, no doubt, to distinguish the difference in a well-cut garment when you compare it with one which lacks this feature. Style, however, is an intangible thing; its difficult to determine what really makes it.

Thirtieth Birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Colabuono entertained about thirty guests Sunday, at their home on South Chestnut street, in honor of her thirtieth birthday. An elegant dinner and supper were served and the hostess received several beautiful and useful presents. Other refreshments were served during the day and the company was entertained with an abundance of vocal and instrumental music. A number of group pictures were taken during the afternoon.

Good Business Day.

Notwithstanding the fact that we had a circus in the city on Thursday of last week, which brought in a large crowd of people from every direction, there was an unusually large number of farmers and other buyers Saturday, and the merchants report a good business. A party in walking a few squares encountered more than a hundred vehicles. If the business of Saturday is any criterion of what is ahead for the summer months, the business men of Seymour will fare well in 1910.

Cincinnati Excursion.

The excursion to Cincinnati Sunday was one of the largest that has been run on the B. & O. S-W. for some time. There were eighty-six tickets sold from Seymour. The train was in charge of Howard Brown, conductor and Herbert Durham, engineer.

SLANG.

Is society turning toward slang and abbreviations, or toward the use of longer and more musical words?

You will think, no doubt, that it depends upon the society, and so it does.

The so-called higher society will say, "Get next to the gabbzo with the tilted lid!" in preference to something more difficult to understand, but more pleasing to the ear.

Someone of the lower strata of society will say, "The humidity in the air disturbs my sense of comfort."

It is all a question of doing and saying things out of the ordinary that appeals to the American's nervous and ever changing disposition. The American has a strong desire to be original, even if his originality is no better than original sin.

A tenderfoot came west and said to Lariat Pete: "Is the climate here salubrious or enervating?" To which Pete replied: "I dunno, but people that talks United States, and not too much of that, seems to live about the usual time."

It is a pleasing sight to see a beautiful woman walking along the street; but when she is near enough for you to hear her conversation, imagine the shock to your nervous system if you hear her say, "That geezer ought to have his block knocked off," or perhaps this, which is even less elegant: "He will get dinged in the nut some day!" Such things as this happen often, and oh, what a bad taste they leave in one's mouth!

In these wise, clever, and advanced times, the sweet, musical voice and the charming manner often appear in wolf's clothing. You never can tell!

Slang is a habit, and with constant use, one's taste for it grows until the result is almost beyond belief. A little slang goes a long way, and it is well to give it the opportunity.—New Haven Register.

THREE DRESSES COMBINED IN ONE.

An Englishwoman has invented a gown which gives three changes in one. It is designed especially for girls who go on walking tours, this form of exercise having become popular in England. Starting out in one of these dresses it is possible to wind up at a friend's or elsewhere, and contrive a change which does not smell of the road. When used for walking purposes the dress is on the jumper order, with a plait back and front reaching from the neck to the hem, with black linen buttons down each side. The sleeves reach to the wrists, with buttons down the outside seam, and a neat little Puritan collar with a black silk tie is worn. When a halt is called the high collar and front come out, and by an ingenious arrangement the top of the gown turns down. Over it a Peter Pan collar may be pinned. The long sleeves unbutton just above the elbow and a pair of muslin cuffs to match the collar are buttoned on. This works a transformation into a cool and pretty dinner frock. A white tucked muslin gumpie gives another change, as it can be worn instead of the gray linen front and collar, which are detachable. These combination dresses are now on sale in London, and they ought to commend themselves to the band of American girls now traveling in England and Scotland, each with one hat, one dress and a few small articles in a small handbag.—New York Press.

A MAN TO AVOID.

The cynical old maid would probably tell us that all men should be avoided. The happily married young woman will say that is nonsense—all men are good, as undoubtedly they are to a certain extent. Rarely does one come across any man who is thoroughly bad.

Yet the old maid is not entirely wrong, either. There are some men whom it is well to avoid, and the young girl who is just entering social life should take the advice of those who have had more experience than herself—that is to say, in the greater issues. It savors of youth and almost foolishness to refuse to know a man even slightly because of some faults.

In the matter of real friendship, however, and marriage, a girl is unwise if she accepts as friend or lover a man whom other men dislike. Such a man is not often worthy of a good woman's consideration and certainly the inexperienced girl is better to keep at arm's length a man of that sort.

Either he is mean or selfish, a blusterer or must plead guilty to other faults. As an acquaintance perhaps he might be possible, but as a friend most inadvisable.

One wants a man who is comparatively strong all over if he is to be admitted to the innermost sanctuary. The man who is impossible in one or more respects must certainly be relegated to the mere outward fringe.—New York American.

AGES OF FAVORITES.

How old some of our favorite actresses and singers are getting! Miss Ellen Terry was 61 recently, Mme Patti is actually 66, while the other day Mrs. Kendal completed her 60th year. Mrs. Kendal, by the way, is still thought of by older patrons of the theatre as the sister of Tom Robertson. She was his very little sister. "It is so amusing," she once said, "to hear people talk and write about my eldest brother Tom and me playing together as children. My mother married when she was 18 and my brother was born when she was 19. I was born when she was 48 and was her twenty-second child. So my brother was a grown man with a mustache when I knew him. I was brought up with his two children, little Tom and Maude, my own nephew and niece." Mrs. Kendal was married forty years ago, and the story has often been told how, owing to a death in the company, she and her husband were obliged to act the parts of Rosalind and Orlando on their wedding day. And what a reception they had when they came to the passage, "Will you, Orlando, have to wife this Rosalind?" Orlando: "I will, as fast as she can marry us."

A CLEAN SUBURB.

Ballard clubwomen, assisted by the Salmon Bay Improvement Club, have started out to make the shingle suburb the cleanest and prettiest of Greater Seattle before the opening of the fair. Ballard is the greatest shingle manufacturing centre in the world, and the mill towns usually are regarded as not clean, whether they are or not; but Ballard women, in many instances the wives of the mill owners, themselves are determined to prove that this aphorism is not justified in the case of the North end suburb. The aid of the school children, school teachers, business men, city officials and police department is to be enlisted in making the movement a success. It is planned to give away $100 in cash prizes, this sum to be raised by a house to house canvass by the women, and the awards are to be made July 1. There will be prizes for the best kept lawns, parking strips and sidewalks, kitchen gardens and backyards. Ballard is rapidly forging ahead as a residence district, some of the finest homes in the city having been built recently on Brygger Hill, Loyal Heights, and the northern outskirts.—Seattle Times.

WORLD-FAMED EYE SPECIALIST.

The death recently of Dr. Charlotte Ellaby, one of the foremost eye specialists in the world, was due to the nervousness developed in a journey from London to India to perform a double cataract operation on the Ranees of Jamnager. She was in poor health before she left London, as a result of wearing duties in her profession. Dr. Ellaby was the daughter of a clergyman. She was graduated from a medical school in Paris, and at once went to Bombay, India, where she practiced in the Cama Hospital for Women. In addition, she did an extensive general practice. Weakening under the severe Indian climate, she returned to London and became the first ophthalmic surgeon in a hospital for women and children. When she died she was consulting ophthalmic surgeon and lecturer on ophthalmic surgery to the London School of Medicine for Women and a member of the faculty of medicine of the University of London. She received a fee of many thousands of dollars for her trip to India for the single operation on the Ranees' eyes and also was provided with first-class return passage.—New York Press.

FOR A YOUNG GIRL.

There is undoubtedly an age in colors. The clear blues, reds, pinks and yellows belong to youth, and youth alone should wear them.

The time will soon come when the pastel shades, the lavenders, the shaded purples and the shadowy greens must be our lot. Therefore, "gather ye rosebuds while ye may" and glory in all the fresh, beautiful colors of youth.

It is not one color that is too bright, too loud for a young girl; it is the combination of two or more colors. If this be remembered when replenishing the wardrobe, and only those colors be chosen which will combine with those already got, fewer mistakes will be made, and the number of "perfectly hideous" hats or frocks hung in forgotten clothes presses would soon diminish.

It is a mistake for a young girl to eliminate all the stronger colors from her belongings, for she, and she alone, can do them justice.—New York Press.

FASHION NOTES.

An innovation of the season is the use of mousseline ruching to finish silk gowns.

Some of the gayest-colored linen gowns are of the simplest treatment with collars and cuffs of plain white linen.

Even full dress costumes are to clear the ground if the latest edict of Paris abolishing all trains is obeyed.

Silk lace has returned to favor, and in the different blond laces and in Mechlin many exquisite costumes are made up.

Among the coats that are practical, as well as beautiful, those of heavily ribbed and knotted shantung silk are noticeable.

Meat in the Diet.

How much meat is in a normal diet? The answer to this question is impossible of universal application. In a matter of diet, as in almost everything else, man is idiosyncratic. Some people naturally choose, normally, more meat and some less. The same is true of every other component of the diet. Many people have a repugnance to certain articles of food, vegetable or animal. Some people, normally, eat a larger percentage of meat than others. A stated amount, therefore, can only be a general one, applying to man as a whole and not to any particular individual. When normal, man is left with the choice of the diet, and, where all forms of food are equally accessible, it is surprising to see what uniformity exists in the choice. While it is true that there are great differences in the dietary of different nations, these differences are not so much those of choice as of necessity. The true comparison, therefore, would be in the dietary of men in different nations of practically independent means who thus have an unrestricted financial opportunity to gratify their wants. Among this class of the community a remarkable degree of uniformity in the choice of diet is found. A well-to-do man who takes moderate exercise consumes about a quarter of a pound of protein, 35 of a pound of fat, and 1.1 pounds of starch and sugar per day. By "moderate exercise" I mean the man engaged in moderate labor. Persons of sedentary habits, of course, should eat much less, but unfortunately they do not all do so.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley in Collier's.

Cottonseed Oil and Flour.

When cottonseed oil was first put on the market, thirty years ago, popular prejudice was against it. Predictions were made that it would never be used. Legislation against its use was urged.

Oil and cake together, crushing and grinding cottonseed has built up a great trade. An acre which grows a bale of cotton returns to its cultivator nearly as much for oil and cake as for cotton. When cotton was 15 cents a pound and the seed was wasted, a man got $75 for the lint and that was all. Now with cotton at 15 cents a pound he gets $75 for lint and almost as much more for oil and cake. Nor does cultivation cost him any more.

Cottonseed oil has become a food widely used and enters into many arts. The cake has been fed to cattle. Ground, a recent report shows, that it yields a flour five-fold more nutritive than wheat flour.

Like oil, its use as food will take time. The early oil was almost uneatable until processes were improved. The flour will have to go through the same experience and manipulation. Chemical analysis and human digestion do not give the same results in food.

But exactly as corn, once fed principally to cattle, has entered into human consumption on a scale three or four times larger than twenty-five years ago, as breakfast foods came into use, so cottonseed flour will gradually become a staple food for man.—Philadelphia Press.

Should Weigh Bread

Housewives who are endeavoring to keep down the cost of living by practicing every-day economies are advised by Fritz Reichmann, State Superintendent of Weights and Measures, to weigh their loaves of bread to see how much they are getting.

"A five-cent loaf of white bread as sold by some bakers," said Mr. Reichmann, "weighs 11 ounces and other bakers furnish loaves weighing all the way to 25 ounces. Ten-cent loaves vary from 24 to 34½ ounces, so that the smallest of the ten-cent loaves is smaller than the largest of the five-cent loaves of some bakers. In some bakeries where the average of a five-cent loaf is 16 ounces the average of a ten-cent loaf is only 24 ounces, so that it is cheaper to buy two five-cent loaves than one ten-cent loaf.

"A five-cent loaf of rye bread varies with different bakers from 15½ to 28½ ounces, and a ten-cent loaf will vary from 26½ to 36½ ounces. An eight-cent loaf of rye bread varies from 21 to 38½ ounces.

"There is no law in the statute books requiring the marking of loaves of bread as to what the weight is, as there is, for instance, in Chicago and Washington, or in the State of Massachusetts.—Albany Special to New York Press.

Protecting Live Stock.

British veterinarians, by order of the Board of Animals and Fisheries, must give immediate legal notification to headquarters of all cases of cattle plague, contagious pleuro-pneumonia of cattle, foot and mouth disease, sheep-pox, sheep-scab, swine fever, anthrax, epizootic lymphangitis, rabies, glanders and farcy. Such compulsory notification laws are the way a good honest government looks after the interests of its citizens who have ventured their lives, work and money in agriculture and stock raising. England's honesty plainly shows in her blooded stock. No such monumental blessings are ever brought about by a sneaky loitering, lying nation.—New York Press.

Whether drunk or sober, laments the Atchison Globe, some men are natural-born nuisances.

Is house cleaning a sport or a business? asks the Minneapolis Journal.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Where To Live In The Country.

By E. P. Powell.

IN locating your country place, get as nearly as possible the full relation of your land to the rest of the land about. Sit there until you can feel with Nature, catch her idea and the sentiment of your homestead. Be sure it is part of a poem. It might be well to wait a few days and take another survey, and then a third with your wife and children.

As soon as you have begun to grade and level down, you are liable to throw your property out of relationship to its surroundings. I can show you a hillside, where the first homesteader, instead of leveling his house to the land, leveled the land to his house; this made no end of work for himself, for the showers came guttering down and filling up his hollows; and then every man who followed him in building did the same things, digging flat places into the hillside, until the whole hill was sliced and carved out of comeliness. It was a small attempt to make a side hill look like a plain, and such efforts will always fail.

After you have made a thorough study of what you have purchased, you are ready to plot it on paper. I advise you to do this work yourself. A landscape gardener is likely to express an ambition and set you to working that out. He will almost surely undertake too much. After you have completed your work, you might allow him to look it over and make suggestions, but the real plotting should be between you and Nature. I am talking to those who are going into the country with capital enough to command a small homestead and work out their own ideas.

The Return of Our Feathered Friends.

By Herbert K. Job.

IT is a fascinating and healthful pursuit to "keep tab" on the arrival of the spring birds. As though realizing that it is important to make a good impression, they come arrayed in their very best garments, all of them new, and some a special wedding outfit.

The watching of the migration will give special pleasure if several observers in a locality work together. It is really very exciting to try to record the first arrival of the various species. One has a sense of achievement in being the first to see and report the new appearance, especially if it is some very early or unusual one. Withal, it is the best time to begin to identify the birds.

In the case of those who expect to go afield in this period with considerable frequency and regularity I suggest that they write to the Bureau of Biological Survey, Washington, and secure blanks for recording migration. There is a column on the left where the names of species may be put down in the order in which they are seen. In other spaces opposite can be given the dates when first seen, when at greatest abundance, and, in the case of those proceeding farther, when last noted. This will not only furnish neat and convenient stationery for one's own records, but the copy returned to the department at the end of the season will be a real contribution to science.—Outing.

Tabloid Exercise.

By Dr. Woods Hutchinson.

ONE of the most foolish and prevalent fads in physical culture is the "tabloid" delusion—the idea that you can concentrate the essentials of a day's exercise into about ten or fifteen minutes of "predigested" whizzing with dumb-bells or pumping with somebody's "Extrasizer," as Morris Mowgilefsky calls it, usually advertised under such headings as "Health and Long Life for $1.35; or, The Secret of Vigor in your Vest Pocket"; or "A Gymnasium in a Clothes Closet"; illustrated by a picture of some hippopotamus of a creature, whose muscles have broken out all over him and who in his sworn testimony assures you that with it alone he has built himself up to his present elephantine proportions from a spindling, narrow-chested consumptive! The bare possibility of ever coming to look like such a monstrosity would send a shudder down the spine of any rational being, but the "Extrasizer" sells like the proverbial "hot cakes."—Outing.

Women and the Motor Car.

By Robert Sloss.

UNUSUAL physique is not necessary for the woman motorist. Neither sex needs extraordinary muscular development in automobiling, and almost any woman not an invalid can master its mysteries quite as well as a man, provided she has the will and the patience to acquire the know-how. Certainly in the sphere of patience woman by nature is equipped to give man a long handicap. The woman motorist is not half so likely as man is to swear and call loudly for a tow when anything goes wrong with the car. She will more probably set quietly to work to find the trouble and remedy it quite as thoroughly as if she were cleaning out the kitchen range.

"Remember, nevertheless, that though sex and slight physique are in no sense disabilities to the woman who wants to do her own motoring, and though her feminine patience and intuition stand her in good stead, she must not expect to succeed by intuition alone."—Outing.

The Fun of Fishing.

By Dr. J. A. Henshall.

IT is not all of fishing to fish. Rather, it is the opportunity that angling affords for the realization and enjoyment of Nature's resources, with the subsequent compensation of renewed health and strength. The cares and anxieties and perplexities of everyday life are forgotten as the angler wades the merry stream and casts his flies on the flashing water. He is wholly obsessed with his pursuit and has unbounded faith in his methods.

And while the eager expectancy of a response to his lures absorbs his every faculty, he enjoys, at the same time, in a subconscious way, the bounties of Nature surrounding and investing him. The voices of the stream are ever in his ears—the lapping and purring of the water as it sparkles on the rattle or whirls in the eddies. He is alive to the song of the birds, the hum of insects, and the whispering of the leaves as the sunlight filters through them.—Outing.

Staten Island's Buried Stumps.

Every once in a while, after storms tear off sections of the Staten Island meadows, great stumps and roots of ancient trees are uncovered. These roots are five or six feet underneath the meadows, and root out into the post-glacial clay and silt, so may be a matter of thousands of years old, or may hark back to the time when Staten Island was a bank of the Hudson, for the valley of the Hudson extends out to sea eighty miles, where it drops sheer into the Atlantic basin.—New York Press.

Sunday School's Want Ad.

There is a church in Brooklyn that has adopted a novel scheme for enlarging its Sunday school. It advertises for boys and girls to come to it. In the shop windows in the neighborhood of the church one may see placards, such as are used for advertising entertainments of various kinds, that bear the legend: "Wanted—Boys and girls to join our Sunday school." Below this are set forth the advantages that will come to the young folk who attend the classes.

Echoes of the Past.

Clearly Shown.

A story is told of a simple and devout Methodist minister who was not sufficiently eloquent or businesslike to be approved by the presiding elder.

Through the influence of the elder he felt sure he was appointed to a small and widely scattered settlement where there was much hard work, and the results were necessarily meager.

One day he was commenting sadly on the narrowness of his opportunities to a friend, who said gravely that he ought to pray for light that he might see the hand of the Lord in his appointment.

"I have, brother," he answered, "again and again. But so far," he added, with a whimsical smile, "I've only had light enough to see the interfering hand of Elder Brown."

WESTERN CANADA

What Prof. Shaw, the Well-Known Agriculturist, Says About It:

"I would sooner raise cattle in Western Canada than in the corn belt of the United States. Feed is cheaper and climate better for the purpose. Your market will improve faster than your farmers will produce the surplus. The surplus can be grown up to the 60th parallel 180 miles north of the international boundary. Your vacant land will be taken at a rate beyond present conception. We have enough people in the United States alone who can take up this land. Ready homes to take up this land."

Damascus, "City of Magic."

An oriental city of magic called up by a slave of the lamp to realize one's dream of the orient; a city ethereally lovely, exquisitely eastern, ephemeral, to be blown away by a breath like a tuft of thistle-down, not white, but delicately pale with a pallor holding the faintest hint of a seashell flush; a city slender, calm, almost mystic in its fragile grace, set in the heart of a great wonder of green, a maze of bright and ardent woods, beyond which lie the desert spaces—this is Damascus from the mountain of Jebel Kasyun. It holds one almost breathless seen thus from afar.—Robert Hichens in Century.

Life notes: Three bees that give no honey—brag, boast and bluster.

Opportunity is a good knocker, admits the Commoner, but there are others.

When money talks lots of us need an ear trumpet, confesses the Philadelphia Record.

There is this difference between a lunatic and a stubborn man, defines the Pittsburgh Dispatch. You can reason with a lunatic.

It is very much easier for a bad man to become notorious, muses the Atlanta Journal, than for a good one to become famous.

A mother who isn't willing to be imposed upon by her children, chirps the Atchison Globe, will be talked about by the neighbors.

There are still a few old-fashioned people, contends the Chicago News, who never rode in an automobile.

When it comes to principles, there are some heroes who would rather die for theirs, moralizes the Dallas News, than live up to them.

It is true, as the Richmond Virginian says, that no man is a hero to his stenographer, but often he becomes her husband, comments the Charleston News and Courier.

I drink up a dollar and there goes a good cotton hat, doesn't it? I drink up 75 cents and there goes my shirt; $2, and there go my shoes, and I drink up $3 and away goes my breeches, and I ain't going any further.—Ex-Gov. Glenn of North Carolina. Democratic simplicity, comments the New York World, that wears $3.00 breeches and a "good" cotton hat" costing a dollar is welcome in this town. We need more of it.

During the last two lean years there was a large outflow of immigrants returning to Europe because of the want of employment. This outflow has fallen off 50 per cent in recent months, insists the Philadelphia Record. On the other hand, there is a considerable increase of immigration. It is estimated by the Atlantic steamship companies that the tide of immigration this season will be as strong as ever if no further measures of restraint are imposed on it.

The Youth's Companion tells this story: At a certain railway station an anxious man came to the door of the baggage car and said: "Is there anything for me?" After some search among the boxes and trunks the baggage-master dragged out a demijohn of whiskey. "Anything more?" asked the man. "Yes," said the baggage-master, "there is a gravestone. There's no name on it, but it ought to go with that liquor." Here's one to go with it. A customer in a downtown saloon where there is a teetotal bartender asked for whiskey and imported beer, mixed the two, and remarked that his mixture was a "stone wall." "I'd call it a tombstone," the abstemious man behind the bar remarked.

Says the St. Louis Republic: Oil promotes economy of room, absence of smoke, reduction of the non-fighting force, ability almost instantly to attain high speed efficiency and uniformity of feed. The absence of smoke is of inestimable importance both because it permits a war ship to approach the enemy unheralded by a black banner in disguise and because it helps a weaker vessel to speed away. Of all nations ranking among powers of the first rank this is best equipped by nature to supply for its fighting fleets oil in quantity unlimited and at minimum cost. From the Alleghenies to the Gulf and westward to the Pacific coast there exist stores of petroleum whose development already is enormous and whose possibilities scarcely have been fathomed.

Daedalus, cunning artificer, pioneer and predecessor of the Wrights, was the Greek father of all handiwork, and as such was adored by ancient artist unions. He was an Athenian, says the New York Press, and the first artist who made the presentment of a speaking, moving statue. He invented the ax, the awl and the bevel, also the saw, which he copied from the jawbone of a snake. He also invented the potter's wheel, the turning wheel, the plumb line, glue and gluing, the gimlet and other hand tools. He laid out and built the wonderful labyrinth for the Minotaur later. He discovered and uncovered. He and his son Icarus were fastened up in the labyrinth for giving Ariadne the clue with which she guided Theseus through its mazes. But Daedalus and Icarus escaped and flew over the sea on wings of wax and feathers made by old man Daedalus himself. Icarus flying high, the sun melted the feathers off, and down he plumped into the Icarian Sea, which was named for him. It is only recently that one could believe there was a soul of truth in the myth, but poor Dr. Lillenthal made pretty long flights on wings that could easily have been formed of tough wax and feathers and sticks.

Her Scalp Itched Intolerably.

"Just about two years ago, some form of humor appeared on my scalp. The beginning was a slight itching but it grew steadily worse until, when I combed my hair, the scalp became raw and the ends of the comb-teeth would be wet with blood. Most of the time there was an intolerable itching, in a painful, burning way, very much as a bad, raw burn, if deep, will itch and smart when first beginning to heal. Combing my hair was positive torture. My hair was long and tangled terribly because of the blood and scabs. This continued growing worse and over half my hair fell out. I was in despair, really afraid of becoming totally bald.

"Sometimes the pain was so great that, when partially awake, I would scratch the worst places so that my finger-tips would be bloody. I could not sleep well and, after being asleep a short time, that awful stinging pain would commence and then I would wake up nearly wild with the torture. A neighbor said it must be salt rheum. Having used Cuticura Soap merely as a toilet soap before, I now decided to order a set of the Cuticura Remedies—Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills. I used them according to directions for perhaps six weeks, then left off, as the disease seemed to be eradicated, but toward spring, eighteen months ago, there was a slight return of the scalp humor. I commenced the Cuticura treatment at once, so had very little trouble. On my scalp I used about one-half a cake of Cuticura Soap and half a box of Cuticura Ointment in all. The first time I took six or seven bottles of Cuticura Pills and the last time three bottles—neither an expensive or tedious treatment. Since then I have had no scalp trouble of any kind. Standing up, with my hair unbound, it comes to my knees and had it not been for Cuticura I should doubtless be wholly bald.

"This is a voluntary, unsolicited testimonial and I take pleasure in writing it, hoping any experience may help someone else. Miss Lillian Brown, R. F. D. 1, Liberty, Me., Oct. 29, 1909."

Minneoganshene.

A hard name to pronounce, called locally "Minnicog." This is a picturesque summer resort on one of the largest islands of the Georgian Bay, only 3½ hours run by the Grand Trunk Railway System from the City of Toronto, Canada, and beautifully situated among the 30,000 islands of that territory. Splendid hotel accommodation, good fishing, fine boating and no hay fever. Bass, trout, pickerel and pike abound. For illustrated descriptive matter and all information, write to W. S. Cookson, 917 Merchants Loan & Trust Building, Chicago.

No Stated Hours.

The city boarder looked with superfluous pity at the son of the proprietress of Maple Hill Farm. "You poor boy," she said, coming upon him, hoe in hand, on his way down the hot road, "do you mean to say you have to hoe potatoes in this heat? How long will you have to work?"

"Well, I can't exactly tell how many hours, ma'am," said the boy, "but 'twill be just an afternoon's work."

"Then you must know how long that will be," said the lady, who was a person given to suspecting others of evading the truth.

"No, ma'am, I don't," asserted the boy, as he moved away. "She said to me, 'Dave, when you've got the potatoes all hoed you'll have done your afternoon's work.' That's all she said, and it's all I know, ma'am."

Protracted.

"Hello, Barker!" said Smitkin, meeting his friend on the street. "How goes it?"

"All right, I guess," said Barker.

"Seen Bobbie Sponger lately?"

"Yes; Bobbie is down at my place at Westhampton now. I invited him down for the week end—"

"Why, I thought that was three weeks ago!"

"It was," said Barker, "but, you know, Bobbie is an expert at making both ends meet."—Harper's Weekly.

The Better Way.

Through the good offices of a powerful American residing in Paris, an ambitious young girl from our West obtained an audience with the late Constant Coghelin of the Comedie Francaise, who graciously consented to hear her recite.

After listening to a classic or two, the great French actor went up to the young aspirant for histrionic honors and placed his hand on her head, as in benediction.

"My dear child," said he, "marry soon. Good-by."

Many a young man is willing to marry an heiress in spite of it.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of woman is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as sacredly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Overland The Simplest Car

The wonderful sale of the Overland—greater than any other car ever known—is largely due to simplicity. The man who runs his own car wants a trouble-proof car.

We are turning out 140 such cars every day, but we never yet have been able to make as many as people wanted.

Easy to Operate

The Overlands operate by pedal control. One goes backward or forward, fast or slow, by simply pushing pedals. It is as simple as walking, and the hands are left free to steer.

The Overland has fewer parts than any other automobile. One part is made to take the place of many. It is free from complexities. The operations are all automatic.

A novice could run an Overland from coast to coast the first time he tried. One of these cars has run 7,000 miles without stopping the engine.

Very Low Prices

The Overlands are made—as watches are made—by modern automatic machinery. And we devote a whole factory to one model alone.

Because of these facts, and our enormous output, we give more for the money than anyone else. We have cut the cost 20 per cent in the past year alone.

We now sell a 25-horsepower Overland for $1,000 in roadster style, or for $1,100 with tonneau. The car has a 102-inch wheel base, and is easily capable of 50 miles an hour.

We sell a 40-horsepower Overland for $1,250. Other Overland models cost $1,300, $1,400 and $1,500. All prices include gas lamps and magneto.

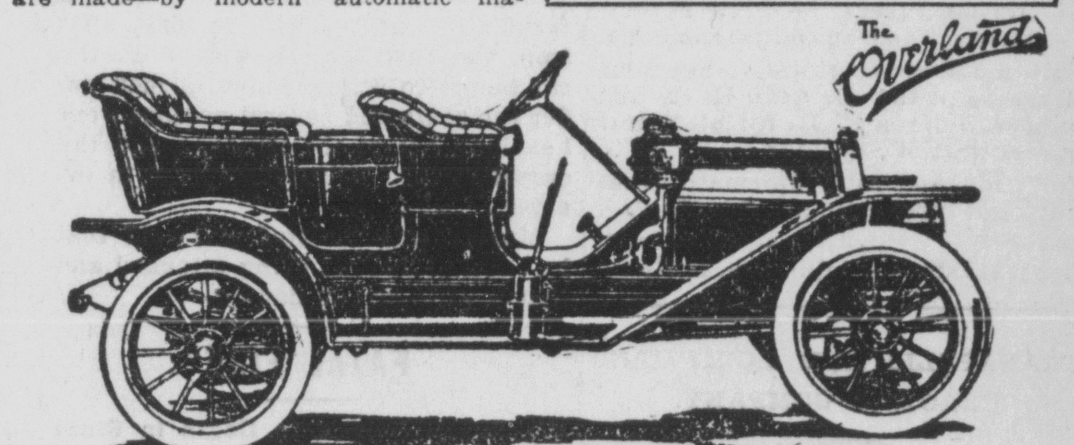

You will find no car that compares with an Overland at anywhere near its price.

The Car You'll Want

You will see why the Overlands outsell all other cars when you make your comparisons. Wherever you are you can do this, for there are Overland dealers everywhere.

But the first step is to send for our catalog—to see all the styles and know all the facts. When we send it we will tell you our nearest dealer. Please send us this coupon now.

The 25-horsepower Overlands cost $1,000, $1,050 and $1,100, according to style of body. The 40-horsepower Overlands cost from $1,250 to $1,500.

If you want to make a lot of money on a small investment buy non-assessable shares in the Mann Indicator Company. This company owns and controls patents in all civilized countries in the only Automatic street and station Registering and Movable Advertising device actuated by electricity in the world; consequently it is a monopoly. $10.00 down and $4.00 per month for 10 months will make you rich.

The profits on $50.00 with bonus in 1911 will be $30.00; 1912, $90.00; 1913, $100.00; 1914, $390.00; 1915, $450.00. These profits will be continuous and will increase yearly as long as electricity is a motive power. After 5 years above figures will double. There is a reason which the literature will explain.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—If interested make contract or pay in full within the next 35 days to make reasonably certain that you will get advantage of bonus, as after that your chance will be slim to get more than half of above profits during the next 5 years. PEORIA HAS A
HOTEL TRAGEDYYoung Woman School Teacher
Found Dead In Bed.

HER COMPANION HELD IN JAIL

S. Easterly, a Freight Conductor, and Miss Minnie Ahlers, a School Teacher, Registered as Man and Wife at the Metropolitan—Easterly Left Room in Morning and Upon Returning Found Girl Dead.

Peoria, Ill., May 23.—Miss Minnie Ahlers, aged twenty, a pretty school teacher of Princeville, was found dead in bed at the Metropolitan hotel here at 7 o'clock Sunday morning with three bullet holes in her body, one through the left lung and her heart pierced by the other two. S. Easterly, aged twenty-five, of Millcothe, freight conductor on the Santa Fe, who for a little less than a year, it is alleged, has had clandestine relations with the girl, is in jail here, but has not yet been formally charged with the crime.

Easterly and Miss Ahlers came to Peoria at noon Saturday and registered at the hotel as man and wife. They occupied the same room Saturday night and, according to Easterly, the girl spent half the night in tears. He arose a few moments prior to the shooting, dressed and made his way to the buffet below. He was absent for about fifteen minutes, and upon his return to the room discovered the dead body. The prisoner told the coroner, it is said, that he came to Peoria with the girl upon her promise to leave him here and go to Wyoming, agreeing to have nothing further to do with him. He said they had not quarreled and that she gave no intimation of a desire to take her life.

TAKING NO CHANCES

Excitable Passenger Created Scene on Train at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, May 23.—William J. Mulkey, enroute from North Carolina to Missouri, was waked up at the union station here by the conductor of a Pennsylvania train and told that he would have to change cars. Mulkey did not seem to comprehend the situation, and when the conductor told him that he would have to leave the car he drew a pistol and began firing right and left.

Five chambers of his pistol were discharged before he could be overpowered. One bullet entered the thigh of a passenger on the train, making a serious wound. With the first shot from the revolver the women in the car began to scream, men ducked under the seats and several persons went headlong out of the windows and the crowd in the station scamped in every direction.

Mulkey was arrested and said that he thought he was being attacked and that his life was in danger.

FATAL FIRE

Watchman Burned to Death in Blaze That Destroyed Conn's Factory.

Elkhart, Ind., May 23.—The plant of the C. C. Conn company, said to be the largest manufacturers of brass band instruments in the world, was destroyed by fire early last night, entailing a loss of $500,000. One of the night watchmen, Roy Edgerly, was burned to death.

Solved the Mystery.

Chicago, May 23.—Albert C. Gordon, for nineteen years a Chicago mail carrier, has been arrested by order of Postoffice Inspector James E. Stuart, who says Gordon has confessed to robbing the mails for more than four years. Complaints from all over the country during the last four years of the loss of money from registered letters had baffled officials.

Taggart Dines Indiana Congressmen.

Washington, May 23.—Thomas Taggart of Indiana gave a dinner at the New Willard last night to the eleven Democratic members of the house from Indiana. Mr. Taggart, who arrived in Washington late Sunday afternoon, explained that his visit was purely personal business and without political significance.

HAPPY RESULTS.

Have Made Many Seymour Residents Enthusiastic.

No wonder scores of Seymour citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make anyone happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements like the following are but truthful representations of the daily work done in Seymour by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, 113 E. Second street, Seymour, Ind., says: "It gives me great pleasure to add my statement to the many others given by parties who have used Doan's Kidney Pills with success. I suffered terribly from my back and my health was all run down. The pain in my loins often kept me awake at night and I also had pains in my head. On a friend's suggestion I procured Doan's Kidney Pills and had not finished the contents of one box before I felt better. The use of four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me and improved my condition in every way."

HOW TO CURE ECZEMA, PIMPLES, AND DANDRUFF.

We desire to say that when we took the agency for ZEMO we were convinced that it was a valuable remedy for Eczema, Pimples and Dandruff. Yet we must frankly admit that Zemo has far exceeded our expectations as a treatment for skin diseases. We are pleased to state that we shall continue the agency as ZEMO has given splendid results wherever recommended. Our customers like ZEMO too, because it is a clean vegetable liquid for external use. ZEMO effects its cure by drawing to the surface of the skin and destroying the germ life that causes the disease, leaving the skin clear and healthy. It does not soil the clothing or linen and can be used freely on infants.

With every purchase we give a booklet on skin diseases explaining in simple words how any person can be cured at home of any form of skin or scalp diseases by this clean, scientific remedy.

RAILWAY BILL
BEING PUSHEDWill Be In Conference By Latter Part of Week

A PROLONGED CONTROVERSY

All Signs Point to a Deadlock When the Administration Measure Goes to the Conference Committee of the Two Houses—Insurgents Say That Every Republican in the Senate Will Vote For Bill on First Passage.

Washington, May 23.—The indications are that the administration railway bill will be in the hands of the conference committee by the latter part of the week. It will be passed in the senate Thursday or Friday unless further obstacles are placed in its way by the insurgents. Debate on the bill will be resumed tomorrow. The Cummins amendment providing that increased rates shall not become effective until approved by the interstate commerce commission is the principal matter in the controversy now.

It will be debated for a day or two. The lines are closely drawn on the Cummins amendment and it will be beaten or adopted by a narrow margin. The insurgents express the belief that the amendment will be incorporated in the bill. All signs point to a prolonged controversy in conference over the bill. The long and short clause and the sections of the house bill relating to capitalization will excite a great deal of controversy.

While it has not yet been determined whether the senate shall retain in the bill pending in that body the sections bearing on capitalization, this subject will come up in conference, inasmuch as the house bill contains features along this line. According to statements made by insurgents every Republican senator will vote for the administration bill when it is put on its final passage.

THEY CAME TOGETHER

Nicaraguans Finally Pull Off Long-Expected Battle.

Washington, May 23.—The state department has been advised by Thomas P. Moffatt, American consul at Bluefields, that a two-day engagement between the Estrada and Madriz forces has taken place near Rama. The result of the battle is not definitely known. The Estrada forces lost fourteen killed and their wounded number twenty-nine, all of whom have been brought to Bluefields for treatment. The casualties of the Madriz forces are unknown. General Mena, one of the insurgent leaders, retired to his intrenchments after the fight.

Large quantities of provisions and ammunition which are represented to be the entire stores of Madriz forces, are reported to have been captured by insurgents.

The entire insurgent force is now said to be attacking Rama, in which place there is neither food nor ammunition. The Madrizists are said to be surrounded. It is expected by the insurgent sympathizers that news of the surrender of Rama will be received shortly.

Mormons Attacked by Indians. El Paso, Tex., May 23.—Renegade Indians in the mountains of Sonora, Mexico, recently attacked the Mormon colony of Pacheco and drove off many of their cattle and horses.

CURES
S. S. S. SKIN DISEASES

Lying just beneath the outer covering or tissue-skin, is a sensitive membranous flesh in which are imbedded thousands of small blood vessels. It is through these tiny veins and arteries that nutriment is supplied from the blood to the different pores, glands and lymphatics. Thus the skin is kept healthy, and free from all eruption or disease, by pure blood. But when impurities and humors infect the circulation its nourishing properties are diminished and instead of supplying the skin with healthful properties it constantly irritates and diseases the delicate fibres, pores and glands with sharp uratic matter. Then the skin tissues inflame, swell and ulcerate and some form of skin disease appears on the surface. Applying soothing lotions, salves, etc., to the outer eruptions does not purify the blood and therefore the skin trouble can not be cured in this manner. S. S. S. cures all skin diseases by neutralizing the acids and removing the humors from the blood. It cools the acid-heated circulation, builds it up to its normal strength and thickness, multiplies its rich, nutritious corpuscles, and adds to its purity in every way. Then the skin, instead of being irritated and inflamed by sour impurities is nourished, soothed and softened by this cooling, healthy stream of blood. S. S. S. Cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Poison Oak, boils, pimples, rashes, etc. Book on Skin Diseases free to all who write.
